

Uni's open day milestone

UNIVERSITY of WA Albany opened its doors to the local community last Thursday, marking its first decade in the Great Southern.

More than 300 visitors, including school groups, teachers, careers advisers, families and members of the public came to the event to find out more about the higher education opportunities available in Albany.

UWA students made the day buzz with excitement as they celebrated the university's 10th anniversary in Albany. School groups joined in the fun – party hats, cake and balloons encouraged by Simon the student clown.

Special guests Senator Mathias Cormann, Liberal Senator for WA, and the Hon Nigel Hallett MLA, member for the South West Region, participated in the many activities, met students, staff and visitors.

Radio West's live broadcasts on the day added to the festivities.

Visiting families Sue Crosby, Brendan Crosby, Kieren Butler and Breana Butler
